

LAWN PARTIES IN CEMETERY NEWEST NORTH END THRILL

Christian Endeavor Picnic Under Japanese Lanterns Among Graves a Big Success.

'WHY NOT?' ASKS WOMAN

Hostess, Who Has Lived in Bellefontaine Nearly All Her Life, Calls It Beautiful.

Lawn parties in a cemetery constitute the very newest North Side social thrill. The young folk make merry in the subdued light of parti-colored Japanese lanterns, and occasionally, seek diversion by strolls among the white and ghostly monuments for the dead.

So popular are these neighborhood fetes that an invitation to spend an evening in Bellefontaine is rarely declined. The graveyard is especially favored for church society festivals, largely because of the hospitality of Mrs. Francis G. Burgess, wife of the assistant superintendent of interments.

Endeavorers' Picnic There.

One of these picnics was given by an intermediate Christian Endeavor society Monday night. Passers by from other parts of the city were amazed at the spectacle of girls and boys and their older chaperons enjoying themselves with music and games under the picnic lamps in the burying grounds. Residents of that neighborhood, however, have become so accustomed to such affairs that they took it as a matter of course.

Mrs. Burgess, who is a member of a senior Christian Endeavor society, had charge of the affair, which has been pronounced a distinct social success. Whether it was because they have become infected with her genial philosophy or whether it was the natural headiness of youth, the guests did not appear to find anything depressing in their proximity to the hosts who have found their last resting place beneath the lawns of Bellefontaine.

Mrs. Burgess has spent virtually her whole life within the confines of the cemetery. Her father, W. L. Graydon, became superintendent of interments when he was 21 years old and has lived there with his family, a wife and seven children. Mrs. Burgess explained something of her philosophy Wednesday.

"We never realized," she said, "that we were living in an unusual place. We often listened in wonder to people who asked us if we weren't afraid to live there. My mother used to say, 'There is less to be afraid of here among the dead than among the living downstairs.' From infancy we were taught to disregard ghost stories. We used to tease other children in school because they believed in spooks. A large tree obstructed a direct view of the funeral home, so our early training taught us to be skeptical about the supernatural, so did this tree loom up, blotting out all sight of the graves."

"If people did arise from the grave, they would haunt their old homes, not the cemetery. To me it seems only a place where God's work is pre-eminently where his handiwork, the flowers, bloom. I have learned to love the cemetery's beauty, not to regard its sad aspect. When a funeral procession passes, I often say to myself, 'There's some other poor heart as sad as mine has been.' If we had ever had any fear of the supernatural, our belief in Christianity would have overcome it."

Often Walks Among Graves. Mrs. Burgess says even the bleakness of winter does not fill her with desolation. She takes walks in the finest season. She says she often walks alone among the graves of evening.

She is a good-humored young woman who smiles often. She laughingly spoke of her father's old horse as the only member of the household who seemed to be alarmed about ghosts.

"When he first came here he used to shy at every turn of a road," she said, "but he, too, has lived it down and is more at home here now than anywhere else."

GATES GIVES $900 TIP; CAFE RETURNS IT TO HIM

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 30.—Charles G. Gates, millionaire son of the late John W. Gates, recently caused the collapse of a negro waiter in the Rogers Hotel, Gates, who recently figured in another cafe episode in Minneapolis, was in the Rogers with a party of friends. The dinner check amounted to something in the neighborhood of $100, according to the cafe manager.

Gates called the waiter to him, pulled out a roll of thousand dollar bill, slipped off the top one and said, "Here, boy, keep the change for yourself."

"Why, Mistah Gates, did you all know that was a thousand dollar bill?" gasped the negro.

"Yes, sure," said Gates, "that's all right. Just keep the change anyway." The Gates party left the cafe. The waiter reported the facts to the manager, turned $900 over to him and the cafe mailed Gates a check for the amount.

of the voluminous reports at their disposal on conditions in Mexico. Indications were that with the appearance before the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations of Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson, the last stage in the program of the administration to discover the facts of the situation before announcing a policy would be reached. While a resolution in the House called for a joint committee to obtain documents in the Mexican situation and another in the Senate sought the opinion of that body on the question of recognizing the belligerency of the Constitutionalists, administration officials again declared there would be no haste in formulating a definite policy toward Mexico. Secretary Bryan stated that no proposition for mediation had been submitted to either of the two factions in Mexico, and incidentally remarked that he might go back to the lecture platform in a few days. The present condition of affairs is not considered acute here.

U. S. Awaits Action in Mexico. The development of a policy by the United States may be delayed to observe the outcome of efforts being made by leading Mexicans to bring about an understanding between the two warring sides here.

Four Plans Considered. Some administration officials have proposed that the American policy be pursued along a succession of alternatives.

First, they suggest the United States should refrain from interference between the Mexican leaders themselves in an endeavor to compose their differences. The attitude of the United States against recognizing the Huerta administration already is being outlined in Mexico, according to reports here as indicating that the abdication of Huerta in favor of a compromise provisional president is inevitable.

Second, should all efforts by the Mexicans to adjust the dispute fail, it is proposed by influential members of the Senate that the embargo on arms be lifted and the two factions be permitted to obtain munitions of war on an equality. Some Senators freely predict a decisive result in quick time under these circumstances.

Third, should peace be delayed, the suggestion is that the United States offer to mediate through a commission.

Fourth, as last resort, it is suggested that a tripartite commission, composed of representatives of the United States and Latin-American nations, should endeavor to bring about a settlement by peaceful means.

ELECTION IN CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, O., July 30.—Cincinnati is holding a special election today on whether the city shall adopt a new charter.

Following this question on the ballot there are two tickets, one headed by Walter L. Knight, who was instrumental in settling the recent street car strike, and another known as the Herbert S. Bishop ticket, from which is candidates for commissioners to frame a charter to be chosen in case the voters decide to have a new charter. Leaders estimate that 60,000 votes would be polled.

Boy Robs Jewish Church. A boy, about 14 years old, forced the front door of the Jewish Congregational Church, 1300 Wash street, Tuesday afternoon, and stole four silver candlesticks worth $10. M. Derwinski of 817 South Fifteenth street reported the matter to the police.

Hunter Burned to Death. TOWER, Minn., July 30.—L. F. Farney, a former resident of Tower, was burned to death when the tent in which he was staying when hunting on an island in Lake Vermilion, took fire from an unknown cause.

LOST GIRL-BRIDE AND HER HUSBAND TO GO BACK HOME

Mrs. Harvey Dean, Brought Back to Iowa, Insists She Loves Harvey Still.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. IOWA, Kan., July 30.—Mrs. Mary Dean told Harvey all about it this morning and it's all settled and they are going back tonight to the simple life at Pleasanton.

The father of Mrs. Dean, W. M. Armstrong of Hume, Mo., will arrive tonight to accompany the young couple home.

In the presence of her husband, Harvey Dean, and local officers here last night, Mrs. Dean admitted that the story she told yesterday relative to her disappearance was false in almost every detail. She insisted that she was stolen by H. M. McCord, and a half dozen confederates, and that they forced her through threats to give out the statement that her husband had attacked her with a knife and that she went away with McCord because he interfered and saved her life.

The girl-wife says she has suffered greatly at the hands of McCord and now that she has been rescued from him, can give him up gladly and love her husband as of yore.

The officers believe a considerable part of the girl's story. They do not doubt but that her abductor lured Mrs. Dean away for a moment and that he then would use any measures to force her to submit to him.

They are of the opinion that McCord and his friends really did frame the false story about Dean's attack on his wife and frightened the bewildered 15-year-old bride into telling 't.

Requidates First Charges.

Mrs. Dean was brought here and placed in the county jail late tonight. As soon as her husband arrived, the cell she rushed into his arms, embraced and kissed him. The young farmer was overjoyed by the reconciliation with his wife.

"That was a terrible story I was forced to tell about Harvey threatening to kill me," she said. "There never was a truer, kinder or more loving boy in the world. They made me lie about him. They threatened me with violence to induce me to tell that story to save McCord. The officers were close to us and McCord fled. Then his friends, a gang at Cherryvale, with threats, put this story about Harvey in my mouth."

Mrs. Dean said she and her husband were accompanied by a half dozen of his gang and that they crowded around her and forced her to refrain from calling for help as they took her to the depot and put her on a train. She said she went with McCord and his friends to Cherryvale and Independence, and yesterday arrived at the home of his parents near Neodesha. Dean kissed his wife affectionately when he left the jail for the night.

INDEPENDENCE, Kan., July 30.—Although the officers kept up an active search for McCord today, he was not located. It was learned that he was in this city last night. He was short of funds and it was believed he had started to walk to Sycamore, Kan., where he has friends, but he did not arrive there during the day.

Mrs. Dean did not seem to be greatly concerned over her detention by the police here.

DIGGS AND CAMINETTE TO BE ARRAIGNED TODAY

They Are Scheduled to Appear on Charge of Violating the Mann Law.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—Maury Diggs, former state architect, and Drew Caminetti, son of United States Transportation Commissioner A. Caminetti, both of Sacramento, were scheduled to appear before United States Judge Van Fleet today for formal arraignment on charges of having violated the Mann law as the result of their elopement a few months ago with two young women of Sacramento to Reno, Nev.

They already have been arraigned on charges of conspiracy, on which they first will be tried.

$150,000 Jewels Taken in Second Narragansett Theft

was visited by an organ grinder, who carried with him a monkey. C. C. Tegethoff, agent of the Harriman estate, at whose offices, 418 Fifth avenue, details of the theft were made known, said this organ grinder undoubtedly was spying out conditions about the house.

"And it is not beyond possibility," added Tegethoff, "that the monkey was the actual thief. I have heard of such things."

Of the jewels $60,000 worth were pearls making up the necklace which Mrs. Harriman gave her daughter at the marriage, May 26, 1910. The others were a ruby and pearl pendant, usually worn with the necklace, valued at between $5000 and $7500, a bar pin containing one ruby, valued at $3600; a platinum plaque of beautiful workmanship containing a single diamond, valued at between $2000 and $3500, and a gold mesh bag, embellished with diamonds and sapphires, valued at $1500.

"The value of the jewels taken," Tegethoff said, "is probably nearer $60,000 than $75,000. I have been able to talk with Mrs. Rumsey only roughly about what gems were taken. If I could identify them accurately I could say exactly what they cost, for I bought them all. I have no doubt, of course, about the necklaces, which cannot be confused with any other."

Now Are the Days Children Need Care

A mother cannot do better for her children than to teach them from their earliest days regularity of the bowels. Regularity can be promoted without the child knowing it by watching its food and by so varying the food that all the elements of digestion are used, when nature will do the rest. The future health of the child depends upon this.

But try as you will there are times when the little one will become constipated and bilious. In hot weather immediate attention is necessary, as many serious diseases result from stuffed-up bowels. Don't give salts of cathartics or purgatives as they are too harsh, but give a gentle, pleasant-tasting bowel stimulant like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It has been used by the children of this as well as a former generation, and thousands of families are proud to speak well of it, among whom we can mention Mrs. Louise Reynolds, 909 Jackson st., Lynchburg, Va., who is glad to recommend it, and Mr. Chas. A. Allen, Manor, Tex., who writes that he often felt 100 years old.

Every druggist sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the price is only fifty cents and one dollar a large bottle. It will cure constipation and biliousness in young and old, break up a cold and stop summer diarrhoea by ridding the bowels of the poisons and germs that cause the trouble. It is a grand family laxative, with valuable tonic properties. Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it, post-paid, by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington st., Monticello, N. Y.

VIOLATION OF LAW CHARGED AGAINST 73 AUTO GARAGES

Building Commissioner Says That Number Have Not Applied for Permits.

AUTO DEALERS TO FIGHT

Association Notifies McKelvey
That Validity of Ordinance
Will Be Attacked.

Building Commissioner McKelvey prepared Wednesday a list of 73 automobile firms in St. Louis which, he says, maintain garages which are not authorized by special ordinances and he will apply for Police Court summonses against those who do not apply for such necessary ordinances within the next few days.

The Automobile Dealers' Association of St. Louis has notified McKelvey that the members intend to fight the regulations and will question the validity of the ordinance making rigid requirements for garages on the ground that it is class legislation. The auto dealers say that those in other businesses do not have to have special ordinances passed to permit them to conduct business, and that they will refuse to comply with the city law.

Provisions of Law Strict.
The law in controversy was passed in the Assembly in February, 1908, and requires all persons or firms operating garages to apply to the Municipal Assembly for a special permit to erect the building to be so used.

Before such a special ordinance is passed the owner is required to obey certain strict provisions which will guarantee that the building will be fireproof, will have no living apartments above the garage, and other conditions guarding the safety of the public.
McKelvey said that when he took charge of his office many garages were being conducted in buildings for which no ordinance had been passed. Many have been constructed since, he said, on permits from the Building Commissioner's office, when the purpose of the building was stated to be a salesroom or like use. Few concerns have applied for and had passed the required special ordinances, he said.
McKelvey has sent formal notices to the firms named on his list, who, he states, have not secured the right to operate garages in the buildings they occupy.

U. S. Grant and Bride as They Sailed on 18 Months' Journey

MR and MRS. U. S. GRANT JR

THE accompanying photograph of Ulysses S. Grant, son of the late President, and his bride, was taken on board the steamship Aorangi, bound from San Francisco for Australia, as they were beginning a honeymoon trip around the world. The trip will cover a period of a year and a half.

Mrs. Grant was Mrs. America Workman Willis. She is 33 years old and her husband is 51. The wedding stirred up opposition on the part of all the children of Grant by his first marriage, except Ulysses S. Grant III, a junior at Harvard, Chaffee Grant, the eldest son, was especially bitter.

Mr. Grant and Mrs. Willis were married by a Justice of the Peace in San Diego, Cal., July 12, and announced the occurrence at a dinner a week later at the U. S. Grant Hotel. Only Ulysses S. Grant III was present of his children, and many old friends of the family remained away from the dinner. John Elms, a student at a San Diego academy, and a son of Mrs. Willis' first marriage, was present at the dinner.

John Elms, her first husband, lives at Marietta Springs. Mrs. Willis' second husband died about the same time that Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant died, and the meeting between Ulysses Grant and Mrs. Willis occurred when the two were both in mourning.

Just before Grant's departure on his honeymoon trip there arrived in San Diego, consigned to him, a large marble monument, which he has ordered placed over the grave of his first wife in a San Diego cemetery. She was Miss Josephine Chaffee, a daughter of Jerome B. Chaffee of Colorado.

Up to the time of the departure of the bride couple there was no sign that his other children would become reconciled to him, and it was reported that he had made a will cutting off those who declined to recognize his present wife.

ENTRANCE BUILT AT POOL FOR OWNERS OF BATHING SUITS

That Class of Bathers Will Not Have to Stand in Line
at Fairground.

Several letters have been sent to the Post-Dispatch in which writers complain of long delays at the Fairground swimming pool caused those who own their own bathing suits and seek to enter the pool without renting suits. The present system, by which owners of bathing suits are compelled to wait in line, sometimes an hour, with others who desire to rent suits, is criticized in the communications.

This matter was referred to Park Commissioner Davis, and he announced Wednesday that a separate entrance has been constructed for those who bring their own suits. A large tent has been provided in which their clothing may be left in care of attendants.

The new entrance will lead to the shower baths. A physician from the city hospital will be in charge of this department to make the necessary sanitary inspection. Those who rent bathing suits will be required to stand in line, awaiting their turn, and will enter at the main entrance as heretofore.

A report of the City Chemist, who made an analysis of the water in the pool after it had been used by several thousand bathers, states that the water is as pure as the ordinary hydrant drinking water.

Davis said that if the city appropriation is not large enough to maintain the pool the entire season, he will pay the deficit out of his salary as Park Commissioner. The appropriation was cut down by the Municipal Assembly in passing the annual budget, and it is likely that more money will be needed before the hot season is over.

STONE CHARGES REPUBLICANS PLOT TO CREATE PANIC

Missouri Senator Shakes Fists at Minority as He Accuses
Them of Conspiracy.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 30.—Shaking a clenched fist at Republican Senators, Senator Stone today charged during the tariff debate that every Republican speech he had heard had been delivered with the deliberate attempt to create a panic.

The Missouri Senator spoke in reply to Senator McLean. He declared it appeared to him that the Republicans, through their speeches, were sending messages to the country with a design of creating fear and distrust.

Senator Clark of Wyoming challenged Senator Stone's statement and asserted that if any distrust were being engendered, it was through statements by President Wilson, Secretary Redfield and Secretary McAdoo.

Senator Stone replied with a charge of a conspiracy among Republican Senators to create a public distrust.

"Name the Senators," demanded Senator Clark.

"Every Republican I have heard speak," responded Senator Stone. He finally named the Wyoming Senator himself.

"I have not delivered a speech," reported Senator Clark.

Senator Stone read mercantile agency reports, showing good business conditions. Senator Penrose declared that not a textile industry in Pennsylvania, east of the Susquehanna River, was running three days a week.

TOLERTON OUT, JONES IS NEW GAME WARDEN

Incoming Official Will Have No Pay Until Money Comes in for Hunting Licenses.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 30.—Jesse A. Tolerton resigned today as State Game and Fish Warden and will be succeeded by Jesse B. Jones of Pike County, whom Gov. Major appointed.

Few hunting licenses are being issued and Jones will have no money for his personal salary until some comes in. The Legislature appropriated $150,000 for the department, but this comes out of the receipts from the sale of hunting licenses and not from the State Treasury.

Tolerton was appointed by Gov. Huley. His term would have expired Aug. 16.

HUNT FOR SLAYER NEAR LITTLE WHITE HOUSE IS BEGUN

Body Found 100 Feet From Wilson Summer Home at Seagirt, N. J.

By Associated Press.
SEAGIRT, N. J., July 30.—George K. Harris, a stenographer, 30 years old, who was found dead from three bullet wounds in the head near the summer home of Gov. Fielder at the State encampment reservation yesterday, had been gambling with the militiamen encamped there and probably was murdered for the money he won, according to the police.

Harris was regarded as a "man of mystery" at the encampment and little was known of him except he came from Danbury, Conn., about a month ago, but advised from Danbury that he is not known there. The police are still confident that the small revolver which Harris clutched in his hand had not been used by himself, the wounds being of a nature that could not have been self-inflicted.

He evidently was murdered while walking from the State camp to his boarding house at Spring Lake, a distance of about two miles. The lawn near the spot where the man's body was found, 100 feet from "the Little White House," where Woodrow Wilson resided last summer before his election and where Gov. Fielder now lives, had been trampled by many feet.

The theory is that Harris gave a hard fight to his assailants, who first shot only to wound him by shooting him in the knee, but then, being hard pressed, shot him through the head.

An empty wallet was found 20 feet from the tree where his body was lying. The police found a man who said he saw Harris Monday and that he then had a wallet stuffed with bills of large denomination.

As a witness, the police are seeking an unnamed woman, with whom Harris was seen walking in the neighborhood of the State encampment on the night of the tragedy.

CAST ASIDE AFTER 11 YEARS, SHOOT AT MAN; IS FREED

Pittsburg Woman Discharged by Magistrate Who Criticizes Double Standard.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. PITTSBURG, Pa., July 29.—Women are emotionally, unthinkingly, men off an eminently, knowing they can escape penalties," said Police Magistrate Daniel Winters in explanation of his unconditional discharge yesterday of a woman who shot twice at, but missed, a man she alleged was the father of her two children, and, after she had lived with him 11 years, cast her aside and married another. He had been arrested, Miss Alice Hopkins, 33 years old, was charged with shooting at C. H. Winters, a wealthy coal operator.

Magistrate Winters said:

"I do not advocate shooting, but the peculiar circumstances gives this woman a great deal of latitude. If judges would treat man and woman alike, I imagine there would be less masculine license."

It is not fair that a woman should be an outcast and a man escape blame in the eyes of a man and a woman about town, except where the man started the woman on her downward course, it is different. But when a man does, as it seems Winters has done, lives with a woman as his wife, and that woman has been faithful to him and has a child which she is rearing to the best of her ability, then that woman should get at least as much consideration as the man. Except for the perfunctory fact that no marriage ceremony has been performed, he and she are man and wife, and even he does not deny that she has been faithful.

"Then why, in the name of justice, should she bear all the blame. There is something wrong about a social system which accepts such a man and outcasts this woman."

"A woman runs every risk, a man little, if any. Even if it is known of a man that he has lured a good woman to destruction, he is excused. No matter what her temptation, the woman is an outcast. The world opens its arms to him. There is not a ghost of a chance for her."

"Some say I have established a precedent in the Winters-Hopkins case. If I have, I mean to follow it up. I do not mean I would desire to condone faults of women and punish only those of men, but I would like to feel I could be fair and square to both, and judge them from a standpoint not influenced by sex differences."

Operation With No Shock Psychic Fear Is Avoided Discoverer Goes to Lecture in England

New Technique Eliminates Pre-operative Worry and Post-Operative Shocks.

CLEVELAND, O., July 29.—Dr. George W. Crile, world famous surgeon, whose achievement in producing a new anesthetic was the subject of an address by Sir Berkeley Moynihan at the meeting of the British Medical Association at Brighton, Thursday, sailed from New York today for London, where he goes to read three papers before the seventeenth international congress of medical men in London, Aug. 6 to 12.

Dr. Crile's new procedure in anesthesia involves preoperative and postoperative administrations of local anesthetic, the anesthetic used at the actual time of operation being nitrous oxide, the familiar "laughing gas" of the dental surgeon.

Since the first discovery of anesthesia, down through the use of chloroform, ether and other destroyers of consciousness, surgeons have been unable to overcome the effect of the fear of the patient before operation, the actual shock to nerve centers during the operation, and the depressing effect upon nervous centers by the wound, following the operation.

It is these three unfavorable conditions which Dr. Crile has eliminated from the surgical operation.

Abandoned Old Anesthetics.

Dr. Crile early abandoned chloroform and ether in his experiments to find the best agent to produce unconsciousness of pain. These two stand-bys of the older surgeons were found to act admirably in producing insensibility to pain in the patient, but they did not preclude the transmission to the nerve centers of traumatic impulses, or impulses resulting from the actual severing of flesh and bone.

Consequently, there was an impairment of the cardiac, vasomotor and respiratory centers, from which death frequently resulted, and which always produced a depletion of the patient's strength.

It was found that these two respiratory anesthetics did not suspend the action of the brain cells to any appreciable extent, and that in the course of an operation every reaction peculiar to muscular exertion, or fear, were manifested, indicating subconscious efforts on the part of the patient to escape injury or pain. The search was then begun for an anesthetic which would tend to preclude the use of oxygen from the blood by the brain cells.

Nitrous Oxide Adopted.

Experiments showed that oxidation of brain cells was only one-third as great under the use of nitrous oxide as chloroform or ether. Consequently, nitrous oxide was adopted by Dr. Crile as the best available anesthetic, and the difficulty of one phase of an operation was removed.

Supplemental to the use of the general anesthetic, Dr. Crile began the use of novocaine, a local anesthetic. This alkaloid, infiltrated in the tissues surrounding that portion of the body to be operated upon, prevented the transmission to the brain of impulses originating in the traumatization produced by the surgeon's knife. Thus were the brain cells protected from danger during the operation.

But, as a psychic strain may be as active as the actual wound in producing shock, it was necessary to extend the operative technique to cover the preoperative dread of the approaching ordeal.

Drugs of Solace Sought.

Drugs which produce solace and quiet were sought, it being necessary that such drugs should conserve the nervous energy and at the same time cause no brain cell changes. Morphine and scopolamine, both alkaloids of different origin, were found to fill this need. The two alkaloids produce a negative state in which the associational power of the brain was greatly depressed and associational memory limited or obliterated. These two drugs are administered before operation and the patient thereafter loses all worry as to the operation itself.

The technique thus far developed protected the brain cells from pre-operative psychic strain and also from damage during the course of the operation. All that was necessary to make this procedure almost perfect was the adoption of some drug which would exclude traumatic impulses following the operation.

It was found that this could be accomplished by the infiltration of the parts surrounding the surgeon's wound with quinine and urea chloride.

Impulses to Brain Blocked.

These two drugs served as an effective block between the operative field and the brain and the effect continues for hours, so that when the anesthetic has ended, the patient is well on the road to recovery.

The new technique of Dr. Crile has developed an operative principle for which a new term has been coined—"anoci-association," which means that by the use of this principle, the action of the nociceptors has been blocked, the nociceptors being those faculties of the brain by which we perceive injuries or wounds to the body.

To carry out this principle requires a careful and expensive technique. The desired end cannot be obtained by a single anesthetic. The preoperative strain must be reduced by the hypodermic administration of morphine and scopolamine.

An inhalation anesthetic must be used to exclude the psychological stimulation of the brain cells in the course of the operation, and the anesthetic of choice is nitrous oxide. A local anesthetic must be used progressively in the course of the operation to protect the brain from local operative injury, and finally, the preoperative effects must be eliminated by a local anesthetic of long-continuing effect.

ERUPTION ON ANKLE GREAT SUFFERING

Many Nights Did Not Sleep. Burned All the Time. Wore Bandage Night and Day. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Now Well.

Kingsville, Mo.—"My trouble began eighteen years ago. Nearly half of the time there were running sores around my ankle; sometimes it would be two years at a time before they were healed. There were many nights I did not sleep because of the great suffering. The sores were deep running ones and so sore that I could not bear for anything to touch them. They would burn all the time and sting like a lot of bees were confined around my ankle. I could not bear to scratch it, it was always so sensitive to the touch. I could not let my clothes touch it. The skin was very red. I made what I called a cap out of white felt, blotting paper and soft white cloth to hold it in shape. This I wore night and day."

"I tried many remedies for most of the eighteen years with no effect. Last summer when my ankle had been sore for over a year and much worse than ever before I sent for some Cuticura Soap and Ointment. It would itch and burn, besides a great burning that I think tongue could never explain. The very first time I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment I gained relief; they relieved the pain right then. It was three months from the time I commenced using Cuticura Soap and Ointment until the sores were entirely healed. I have not been troubled since." (Signed) Mrs. Charles E. Brooks, Oct. 22, 1912.

Cuticura Soap 25c, and Cuticura Ointment 50c, are sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 22-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston." Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

20 FAMILIES DRIVEN INTO STREET IN NIGHT CLOTHES

Fire of Undetermined Origin Discovered by Patrolman at 2705 St. Louis Avenue.

Twenty families were driven from their homes in their night clothing at 12:30
a. m. Wednesday when dense smoke filled their apartments during a fire of undetermined origin, which started in a shoe store conducted by Henry Baumgartner at 2705 St. Louis avenue.
The flames spread to the adjoining dry goods store of Oscar Conrad. The damage to the stocks and buildings is estimated by firemen at $500.

Residents in the buildings were awakened by three shots fired from a revolver by Patrolman Carmody who saw the flames burst from the front door of the shoe store while a block away.
Carmody turned in a fire alarm and hurried into the buildings where he beat on the doors to awaken those who might yet be asleep.

The building is a two-story brick, and has apartments upstairs, all of which were occupied. The fire started in a corner at the rear of the shoe store.
Baumgartner said there are no wires in the corner, and no rubbish was piled there. He is unable to account for the origin of the flames.

Let the greatest athlete have dyspepsia and his

Special Master Shows Receipts

Were $5,569,785.

Frisco finance in the first month of the receivership was the subject of a report made to the Federal Court
Wednesday by the receivers and by Thomas T. Fauntleroy, special master.

The total receipts between May 29 and June 30, the receivers stated, were $5,
569,785.35, and the disbursements $4,935,
542.13. But before figuring the net earnings for the month it was necessary to make a further deduction for funds which had been in banks at the time of the receivership, and a part of which had been collected from the banks, the rest being retained as interest on loans.
These deposits amounted to $633,545.96,
and the amount retained by the banks was $339,548.52. Figuring the balance received by the receivers outside the month's receipts, the receipts become

Superfluous Hair Truths

Investigate all Claims

Claims are easily made but hard to prove. The success of De Miracle has not been attained by merely making claims but by fulfilling them. It is proven by the fact that De Miracle is the only depilatory that has been endorsed by reputable physicians, surgeons, dermatologists, medical journals and prominent magazines.

Only Depilatory of Proven Merit

De Miracle has stood the test of time, having been sold for over eleven years, therefore it is the only depilatory of proven merit. Consequently, the only one you can use with absolute safety. The mere fact that questionable depilatories are advertised should serve as sufficient warning to avoid their use.

DeMiracle Leaves No Tell-Tale Smell

If you use De Miracle it will be impossible for any curious person to know that you have used a hair remover, because De Miracle evaporates immediately after accomplishing its work, therefore leaves no odor whatever. On the other hand, if you use any depilatory with a distinctive odor, an offensive tell-tale smell will cling to your skin for hours.

Only Guaranteed Hair Remover

Others advertise "Guaranteed," but give no guarantee. De Miracle is the only depilatory that has a binding guarantee in each package. Avoid permanent disfigurement by refusing substitutes offered by dishonest dealers merely for a few cents more profit. If your dealer will not return your money, direct. Free information how to determine which depilatories are harmful and worthless sent in plain, sealed envelope. New truths in next ad.

ANNA GOULD SEEKS TO HOLD UP DECREE OF ANNULMENT

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World. Copyright, 1913, by Press Publishing Co. (New York World.)

ROME, July 30.—The Duchess of Talleyrand, formerly Miss Anna Gould, writes a scathing letter to the Gionale d'Italia scoring methods of witnesses used by Count de Castellane at the recent hearing before the Rota Tribunal, which resulted in a decree annulling her marriage to the Count. She says she was not informed that the Rota hearing was to be held and so was unable to call witnesses to oppose those of Count Boni, and that she was undeterred by counsel at the hearing.

She declares Boni's witnesses defamed her, attacking to her at the time of her marriage, when she was only 18, intimations possible to be experienced only by a woman of the world.

The Duchess further asserts the witnesses sought to convince the Rota Judges that she had acted as though she had hydrophobia and was incapable of maternal feeling. She sought to destroy, she declares, the character and moral reputation of Boni, as she could do, but for the sake of her children she refrains, fearing that some day they might see her exposed of their father.

She could easily prove, she insists in the letter, that the testimony of all Boni's witnesses was false, but reserves this to present to the Tribunal at the next hearing.

In closing, the Duchess says she is fighting the annulment solely for her children's sake, because, if Boni secured a divorce and married a rich woman, he would be in a position to take the children, whose possession and education, she says, are now the dearest things in the world to her.

A dispatch from Rome Monday said Cardinal Vannutelli, Prefect of the Sagratura Tribunal (the Supreme Tribunal of the Curia Romana), had decided to postpone until November the decision on the appeal of the Duchess from the Rota Tribunal.

It was reported that the Sagratura Tribunal probably would send the case back for a rehearing.

DROP TO CELLAR CAUSES HUGGINS TO SHIFT CARDS

"Weak Scoring System" Now the Alibi Offered for Team's Poor Showing.

PITCHING IS BETTER
But the Good Hitters of the Club Are Not Getting Timely Safeties.

By Clarence F. Lloyd.

Old Man Slump has obtained a hold on the Cardinals with the result that the Robison Field Cadets are appearing as weaklings in a department where they previously had hobbled with the League leaders. The team is not hitting. A man with one eye could see that in the series with the Giants just ended.

In the five games played with the New Yorkers, nine runs were made. Seven of this total were tallied last Saturday in Harry Sallee's shutout victory. Another run came in the 2-1 defeat of Sunday, while the other tally was marked up in the seventh session on Tuesday's win.

From the fourth inning of Sunday's game until the seventh round of Tuesday's second contest, the Cardinals didn't tally a run. They went 27 innings, or practically three games without scoring.

This failure to make runs is especially discouraging to Huggins and his team just when the pitching staff, which had been held responsible for the defeats earlier in the season, appears to be rounding to form. Sallee, Harmon, Griner and Doak have come through with good games, recently, but in most of the matinees the regular defeat has been marked up because of the failure of the team to make runs.

Any kind of timely batting would have netted a better result than a 1-4 break in the series with the Giants. That Al Demaree and Art Fromme, who do not compare with Marquard, Matty and Tetreau of the Giants' squad, should get away with such easy victories indicates that the Cardinals are weakening at run-getting.

In an effort to shake the hoodoo, Manager Huggins says he intends to shake up the batting order of his team. The same pastime who have been in the lineup will probably remain, but in different positions in the hitting list.

Magee and Koney Slump.
The most discouraging part of the Cardinals' failure to make hits and runs is the fall down of Lee Magee and Ed Koney. Magee has tumbled away from the .300 set while Magee isn't getting his share of the hitting. Koney, who was .300, was Magee's want to connect quite often when Huggins got on base. Working the hit-and-run successfully, Huggins and Magee chased many a tally over the pan, earlier in the season.

Steve Evans, too, though performing almost regularly has been slumping in his real form. Manager Huggins probably will give Teddy Cather a chance to work but the pitcher-outfielder hasn't fully recovered from the injury which resulted from crashing into the fence several weeks ago.

Better Results Sighted.
A continuation of the brand of pitching that the Cardinals have been giving however, should produce victories.

The run-getting of the players is almost sure to come back. Every team is smitten with a similar slump once or more each season.

WRAV'S COLUMN

Alibi Ike Departs.

ALIBI IKE, the seasonal excuse finder for the Cardinals, departed Wednesday night for London, England. O. I. Knockemall, the celebrated hammer thrower, will fill Ike's shoes as best he can. Interviewed at the station, prior to his departure, Alibi said:

"I feel that my usefulness in St. Louis is at an end. In spite of my best support, the Cardinals are now in last place. Before I go I want to say there is a good reason for the present position of the club, but I won't mention his name. Apparently St. Louis doesn't want to know the inside reasons why its club loses. I wish to state that there is nothing more consoling to the defeated than a first-class excuse. In the Cardinals' case I may say that it takes an expert like myself to find one. In Mr. Knockemall the St. Louis public will probably find a man more suited to its needs."

It is understood that Alibi Ike has gone to England to find out what was the lucky break that gave the American tennis team a victory over England. The demand for a capable alibi artist abroad has long been felt, since England began to mingle with America in athletic competition. The demand dates back to 1776.

At the Starting Point Now.

WELL, at any rate the Cardinals can now begin at the bottom and build up.

Just Like the Browns.

THIS is the season, too, when the second division manager convinces his employer that it's best to pay no attention to the team's standing, this year, but to begin building for next season.

We're Altogether Too Smart.

BRITONS may be noted for good sportsmanship, but their defenders among the newspapers of the country simply can't help seeking excuses for them when they lose. In connection with the tennis tournament one London publication prints the following: "McLoughlin concentrated his play on an smashing service, in which any

Double Defeat by Giants Shoves Cardinals Into the Eighth Hole

WILLIE DOAK, starting his first time as a major leaguer, lost a 1-0 game to the Giants of New York, Tuesday. The newest Cardinal loomed up as a prize bit of pitching machinery even though beaten. In fact, his hurling against the National League leaders was the lone brilliant feature of the twin bill from a local standpoint.

Doak threw Al Demaree, the former Mobile (Southern League) star, as an opponent. The hit question was the same-five off each. But Doak was unforgotten in having a run scored off him. At that a better peg by Steve Evans would have saved the day for the former Akron (O.) star. The poor job from the outfield permitted the lumbering Meyers to tally from third on a sacrifice fly.

Doak looks like the goods. He had such heavy hitters as Doyle, Merkle and Murray hitting weak grounders or popping up easy fly balls. His outing is especially praiseworthy, inasmuch as he faced the league leaders and one of the hardest teams in the country to pitch to.

It proved a troublesome Tuesday for the Cardinals. The twin defeat at the hands of the Giants, coupled with the Red's victory over the Superbas, shoved the men of Huggins into last place. It's the first time in years that the team has been in the eighth hole at this late stage of the campaign.

Harry Sallee tried to come back, but proved a failure. Late in the evening, the Sheriff pitched a brilliant game against the McGrawites. He held the

LEVERENZ AIDED POORLY BY MATES AND BROWNS LOSE

Clever Southpaw Pitches Good Game, but Joe Engel Fares More Fortunately in Breaks.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 30.—The Browns are here to do battle in a four-day series with the Athletics, the first game to be staged at Shibe Park this afternoon. Manager Stovall said he would probably use Carl Weikman or George Baumgardner in today's game. He will be opposed by Shawkey or Bender.

The Browns came from Washington, where they succeeded in winning one losing three and tying one game with the Nationals. Roy Mitchell, who beat the Athletics in St. Louis, was the lone twirler in the Griffiths.

Walter Leverenz, the clever young southpaw, deserved a better fate than the 2-1 defeat handed to him in yesterday's game in the capital. He didn't permit an earned run, errors by Austin and Lavan aiding the Nationals in scoring both runs.

Engel Wins Two Games.
Leverenz was pitted again Joe Engel, the young right-hander, who succeeded in winning two games from the Browns during the series. He held the St. Louisans to three well scattered hits.

Manager Stovall decided to give Catcher Sam Agnew a rest. Instead of bringing the big blond to Philadelphia, he gave the backstop permission to go to his home in St. Louis. Agnew intends to rest a day or two longer in the Capital and then proceed to meet the McGrawites. He has Stovall's permission to take life easy until the Browns return to St. Louis Aug. 14, unless something happens to Catcher Agnew or McAllister, in which event Agnew will rejoin his mates in the East.

McCarey Plans Boxing

Tourney to Eliminate
Weekling Lightweights

Promoter Tom McCarey of Los Angeles announces an elimination program in the lightweight division that will certainly settle the question of who has the right to meet the champion for the title. Willie Ritchie, present champion, thinks well of the plan and will offer no objections, provided he gets his price for fighting. The plan as tentatively agreed upon follows:

Leach Cross and Matty Baldwin, Vernon, July 25.

Ritchie and Harlem Tommy Murphy, Labor day, before club offering best purse.

Winner of the Cross-Baldwin fight and Joe Rivers, Vernon, Labor day. Winner of the Ritchie-Murphy bout and winner of Rivers fight. Thanksgiving day, before club making best bid.

This plan will encompass every lightweight who has a valid claim to the title, and should settle, once for all, the question of supremacy among the 135-pounders. As far as the boys themselves are concerned, none will block the plan, with the possible exception of Ritchie, whose dominance in a financial way may be such that they cannot be met.

ARTHUR FLEAGLER ILL; MUST STOP COACHING

CHICAGO, July 30.—Arthur D. Fleagler, who has officiated in "Big Nine" football games for several years, will not be able to act in several contests in the fall for which he was selected. It was announced today. He is ill here with heart failure. Fleagler also must stop coaching the Northwestern University freshman eleven, his physician said.

But Herr Art came through with a good show Tuesday, holding the Cards to five hits. The Cardinals got their lone run off the Quincy citizen when Art Fletcher took a snapper.

Sallee was chased to the clubhouse by the Cardinals in the seventh when the rally was on to let Wingo bat for him. With two runners on, as many out and a marker in, Wingo failed to help the cause, as his best was a pop to Herzog.

TINKER SEES CARDS TUMBLE INTO CELLAR

Joe Tinker, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, whose team exchanged places with the Cardinals Tuesday, saw the Cardinals-Giants matinee at Robison Field, Tuesday. He also chatted with Manager Huggins and McGraw. This gave rise to the rumor that Tink was here to turn a deal or two. He explained his presence by saying that he was on his way to Kansas City where Mrs. Tinker is ill. He preferred to make the ride by night and spent the day here.

SPORT SALAD

WHEW!
DRIP, drip, drip
From every pore, oh skin!
And I would that my tongue could utter
The words that are bottled in.

And old Sol goes shining on
At a hundred and one degrees;
But oh, for the price of a cake of ice
And the touch of a cooling breeze.

SUBTERRANEAN ECHOES.
"Hello, down there, Hugi?"
"Hello yourself!"
"How is it in the cellar?"
"Fine! Coolest place in the house:
Think I'll stay here all summer."

After making a very careful study of Christy Mathewson's pitching we find that his most effective ball is one weighing about five and one-quarter ounces, measuring nine and one-quarter inches in circumference, covered with white leather (presumably horsehide) and stitched with brown twine.

In laying the foundation for a championship team the Cards were a long time finding rock bottom, but have landed at last. Now watch us grow!

When Johnny McGraw makes his tour around the world, he'll just about meet the Cards coming out at the other side.

Peterson Will Play Magnus.
Charley Peterson and Leon Magnus will meet in the third block of their freak ball-and-sock match at Peterson's various Wednesday evenings. In Tuesday's play Peterson won the title, save the three-cushion contest. Magnus won 15-14.

No "Strain" About Winning Baseball Flag, C. Mack Says

Jack Coombs, Who Will Join Club in Week, Not Needed to Clinch American League Pennant, but May Prove "Useful in World Series."

PHILADELPHIA, July 30.—Calahan of the Sox and Clarke Griffith of the Nationals of the Windy City that the pennant race was between the Sox and the Washington team, inasmuch as the Athletics were sure to crack just like a Dresden china teapot thrown against a brick wall.

Usually the mild-mannered sage of Shibe Park never pays any attention to the boasts of his competitors. More often he backs them up, but for some reason the Callahan-Griffith statements got a rise out of the maker of pennants.

"The White Sox have as much chance to win the pennant," said the tall tutor very pepperily, "as ex-President Taft has in the 100-yard dash. I am so worried about Chicago that if today the White Sox were 10 games in the lead then I would advise my friends to mortgage their homes and bet on the Athletics to win out."

Sentors Kidding Themselves.
"Of the so-called contenders Washington is the better team, yet it hasn't the class of the Athletics. I have heard Griffith say that if Washington ever got within hailing distance of us, he would alternate with Johnson and Boehling in the box and nose us out of the championship."

"He can say that with a great deal of ease, but I wouldn't feel a bit worried if Washington were tied with my team now and then would proceed to use their two star curvers for the rest of the season."

LANGFORD PLANS TO BOX JOHNSON, AFTER JEANETTE

Recently Arrived "Tar Baby" Will Chase Champion to England, in September.

Jack Johnson will have a chance to experience the sensations Tommy Burns went through when pursued around the world by the Galveston negro. Johnson followed Burns to Australia and forced him into a match which cost the white man the title.

Sam Langford has started for New York with the avowed intention of camping on the trail of Jack Johnson until he gets a battle, as soon as he can finish with his ancient rival, Joe Jeannette, in a bout scheduled to take place Sept. 2 at New York.

Langford realizes that the freedom of Johnson from the clutches of the Federal officials of this country gives him a new chance to grab the title. With Johnson out of the running and the white hopes drawing the color line, Langford's chance of getting a title would have been slim.

Necessary. I simply wouldn't take a chance. Again, Bush, Brown and Houck have relieved Bender and Plank and saved many games. The experience my youthful string has received this season will do them a great deal of good. In 1914 I think I will have the best pitching staff in my career."

Excuses Indicate Weakness

CROSS'S VICTORY OVER BALDWINN SUSPICIOUS BOUT

Referee in Fifteenth Round Warns Loser to Fight in Earnest.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 30.—Leach Cross defeated Max Baldwin last night at Vernon in 20 rounds of queer fighting. Cross, calculating Hebrew from the wilds of New York, beat Baldwin into a nice pulp condition in the first two rounds of the battle and then seemed content to settle back on his laurels and let the affair go along any old way.

There were several occasions when it appeared as though Cross could have put the little Irish building away, but he either eased up or clinched. On the other hand, Baldwin spent the evening walloping his fighting friend with the side and palm of the hand. He either could not get going or has no punch that is worth the price of cold storage eggs.

Referee Suspends a Job. At the end of the fifteenth round Referee Charlie Eylon warned Baldwin to fight and quit stalling. Mr. Eylon is a referee of judgment and there are few fighters that can put anything over on him when he is the third man in the ring, and he did not like the aspect of the battle last night.

It must be remembered that the little fellows in these last night are veterans of the lightweight division and were so clever with their work that it would be a hard matter to say that they were stalling deliberately, but the whole thing had a decidedly bad flavor. It may be the right and proper thing to have a gentleman's agreement before a battle in the East, but Los Angeles is not used to it. It will have to be admitted the men are great ring generals; in fact, the fight was all generalship. Baldwin seemed to have the better of the first few rounds of the fight, but was bludgeoned right away by his big lips, which began to bleed early in the fight. However, he stung Cross several times with lefts to the stomach, but there seemed to be no damaging effect resulting from the blows as Cross came up without a mark for round after round.

Cross Beat at Close Quarters. Cross easily had a big edge on the fighting, while Baldwin landed most of his blows when standing up straight and punching. As the battle swung into the center stretch Baldwin was getting in a bad way and the crowd began to yell for Cross to put him away. However, Maxy watched the storm and came back with a smile on his puffed lips, sailed into Cross and almost toppled the prize of the "Zat Zid" over on his wishbone.

From the fifteenth to the eighteenth rounds Cross either let Baldwin come back or was hurt by several slaps in the face which did not, as has been said before, leave a single mark. In the nineteenth Baldwin seemed tired again and Cross went into the high speed and during the last round Cross came back with a rush. Before Eylon gave the decision, both fighters stopped in the middle of the ring and told each other how good it was. Then Eylon lifted Leach's cozy glove in the air and awarded him the decision.

1913 FUTURITY WILL BE WORTH $13,700 TO WINNER

NEW YORK, July 30.—This year's renewal of the classic Futurity, the first since 1910, will be worth $13,700 to the winner, according to John Canfield, who has secured it. The race will be run the last day of the August meet, on Saturday, Aug. 30. Forty-six colts and fillies are still in the stakes. Not more than twenty will face the starter. Belmont has four eligibles in Defiance, Pittaway, Ha'benny and Stromboli; J. H. Canfield has Imperator, a son of Peter Quince and Sparkle; Capt. Canfield's most likely eligible is Scorpion; Alex Smith's colts will be represented by Early Rose; John Madden has Sham and Stripes; the Newmarket stable's color-bearers will be Any Time; Harry Payne Whitney has two who haven't appeared in public yet—Pennant, by Peter Pan, and Royal Rose, and an unnamed colt by Peter and Harpshold, and R. T. Wilson Jr. may decide between Harpsholder and Prairie.

CHANGED LINEUP WINS FOR O'CONNOR'S TEAM

CLEVELAND, O., July 30.—The St. Louis Federals got off to a good start in their series here by winning the opening game over the Young's team yesterday, 5-4. Chief Manager did the hurting for the Mount City aggregation. He held the locals to a shutout, but a rally in the ninth inning threw a scare into the St. Louis men. It fell one run shy of tying the score. Miller and Wilson pitched for Cleveland. Manager O'Connor made a change in his lineup. Rube Murphy was left at home and Frost played third base while Gaston moved in to second and Collins went to center. Moves performed at first.

The Pirates are having a tough time of it at home. They dropped the third game of the series to the Phils Tuesday, 7-4. The Cardinals grabbed only one contest from the Daisies.

Carroll Brown spread a coat of whitewash over the Tigers, while the Mackmen thumped Dues and House for eight runs. The second game had reached the third inning when a thunderstorm broke up the matinee.

Old Man Brown was called to the rescue of Chief Johnson and aided in the defeat of the Superbas by the Reds. Walker was the Brooklyn pitcher.

The Naps took both ends of the twin bill from the Yankees, 6-3 and 6-3. Joe Jackson was very much in the game. He poked a homer, a double and two singles, besides scoring four runs and stealing two bases.

Mark down Tuesday, July 28, as an unusual day for the White Sox. They played two games and Red Russell's name doesn't appear in either box score. The Sox lost a double defeat to C's team. Incidentally, the White Sox failed to win a single game of the series from the Red Sox.

Dickson's good pitching gave the Braves a 4-1 victory and an even split in the series with the Cubs. Overall was found for a dozen blows.

Pitcher Benton in Cycle Crash; Expected to Die

Motor Cycle Collides With Car, Causing Concussion of Brain of Red Twirler.

CINCINNATI, July 30.—"Rube" Benton, star pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds, was probably fatally injured in a motor cycle accident in Walnut Hills, a section of this city, early this morning. Benton's motor cycle collided with a Madison road car. At the Cincinnati hospital he is said to have sustained a fractured jaw, concussion of the brain and internal injuries. It is thought that he will die.

Benton had not regained consciousness up to 8 o'clock this morning.

Benton was on his way home when the accident occurred. Some witnesses said he was going at a high speed at the time that he lost control of the motor cycle and ran into the car. Others said the car ran into Benton and that the motorcyclist was at fault. The collision was head-on and Benton was hurled to the street with terrific force.

DETECTIVES TAKE NOTED BISHOP FOR A BOGUS PRIEST

Head of Sewanee Detained at Station Until Fellow Passengers Vouch for Him.

AMATEUR SLEUTH CAUSE

He Sees Churchman and Daughter on Train, and Telegraphs to Police.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 30.—In a speech delivered before the St. Nicholas Society of New York two years ago Bishop Thomas Frank Gallor, chancellor of the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., said without a sense of humor that "no Bishop could long survive."

He had strong need of calling his sense of humor to his aid at the Union Station, Cincinnati, where he was detained 20 minutes by detectives who thought they had captured a swindler—a bogus Catholic priest, whose description had been sent broadcast by the New York police.

Not only was the Bishop held up and subjected to a rapid fire of interrogations, but his youngest daughter, Miss Ellen D. Gallor, and one of her close friends, Miss Stefanie English of New Haven, Conn., also were drawn into the group and surrounded by sleuths.

It wasn't until several passengers on the train—all well-known Louisville men, came forward making indignant comment on the detention of Bishop Gallor and informed the detectives of the identity of the man that the detectives began to back away and apologize.

The Bishop smiled most of the time and finally nodded his forgiveness. Bishop Gallor has been occupying a pulpit in New York. An amateur Sherlock Holmes aboard the parlor car of the train on which Bishop Gallor, his daughter and Miss English were traveling had read a description of the bogus priest who had been fleeing New York, and knew that this clergyman invariably was accompanied by two young women.

The sleuth wired to the Cincinnati Detective Department ahead of the train.
"I had alighted from the train to send a telegram," said Bishop Gallor, "when a young man first came up to me and then others and began to ask me questions. I told him I was a clergyman and he demanded that I present my credentials, which, of course, I promptly did."

First All-Women Jury on East Side

Imposes $5 Fine on Woman Defendant

She Is Preparing to Take an Appeal "Just Because"

Costless Lawyers and East Side Judge Apologize; Pay Demanded After Verdict.

"You yourselves are the law. You are the whole case," shouted Attorney Charles B. Carroll at six melting little women who Tuesday afternoon sat in a hot, crowded courtroom in East St. Louis and formed the first woman jury that was ever impaneled in that city.

Carroll was attorney for the defendant, Mrs. Blanche Thomas of 718 Baugh avenue, East St. Louis, who was charged with disturbing the peace of the whole neighborhood in which she lived, and in particular, that of Mrs. Ed McKinney, her next door neighbor. He pleaded loud and long and appealed to humane and sympathetic reasons for his client's acquittal.

As he reached the climax Miss Ruth Littlefield, one of the jury said in an audible whisper, "I wish he wouldn't shout so loud, it hurts my ears."

When Carroll finished, he handed a slip of paper to Mrs. Lizzie Mooney, one of the six, and said: "If you think she is innocent sign this."

Apologizes for Lack of Cost.
She pushed it away saying "I don't want that," and he put it in her lap. Then giving a courtly bow and apologizing for being without his coat, and thanking the jurors for their attention, he sat down.

Whereupon Judge F. X. Ziegelmeyer, in whose courtroom the case was being tried, and City Attorney Thomas Fekete

Jr., who was prosecuting the case, also arose and offered their apologies for the absence of their coats.
Nobody knew before the trial there was going to be a woman jury. The usual male venire already had been called when Mrs. McKinney, the plaintiff, decided she wanted women to judge her case because, as she afterwards expressed it, "women could appreciate how humiliated she had been" by the harsh words of her neighbor. So a deputy went out and brought the women in, eight of them.

The six accepted were Mrs. Lizzie Mooney of Madison, who was eating ice cream in a nearby cafe, Miss Ruth Littlefield, 18 years old, of 1204 St. Clair avenue, a stenographer for the Builders' Exchange; Miss Jennie Ward, 18 years old, of North Seventy-fourth street, and Miss Ruth Brown, 18 years old, of 2304 Waverly place, both stenographers for the Industrial League; Miss Emma Mitchell of 72 North Thirtieth street, stenographer for Attorney A. A. Hunt, and Miss Elsie Ax, 19 years old, society editor for the Evening Sun of East St. Louis. The two excused were Miss Lena Reardon, of 631 Collinsville avenue, and Mrs. Louisa Pinks, of 224 Illinois avenue.

Wait for Their Money.
So there they sat until City Attorney Fekete went out and returned with six bright blue dollars and placed one in the hand of each.

The case was appealed by Mrs. Thomas. This was not because four of the six jurors were under age, this having been waived, but just "because she wanted to," according to her attorney.

We realized when we had impaneled them that four were under the specified age of 21 years, but we waived that requirement because it would have taken too long for the Deputy to get more," said Carroll.

"But, your Honor," she said, "I was called a liar, in fact, I was called a damned liar." The judge pounded for order in the courtroom.

Verdict Soon Reached.
The female jury only debated for a few minutes after the evidence was in, gave a verdict of "guilty" and assessed the minimum fine in such cases, $5 and costs. The foreman, or rather the forewoman, Miss Emma Mitchell, said:

"It took us only a minute to decide. We were all sure she was guilty, but we were trying to decide what the fine ought to be. We decided that if we were in her position we would want the least possible fine, so we put it at $5."

Miss Ruth Brown said: "At first I was very much excited and all fussed up, but I soon settled down and realized the seriousness of what we were doing, and I am sure we all tried to consider the case from just what we heard and did not let the feeling that Mrs. Thomas was a woman influence us any."

"I think we returned a proper verdict. Before I have had my doubts about women acting on a jury, but now that I have heard this case I feel that they are amply qualified."

After the verdict the Judge thanked them and told them they could go. "But we want our money, Judge," spoke the forewoman.

Wait for Their Money.
So there they sat until City Attorney Fekete went out and returned with six bright blue dollars and placed one in the hand of each.

The case was appealed by Mrs. Thomas. This was not because four of the six jurors were under age, this having been waived, but just "because she wanted to," according to her attorney.

We realized when we had impaneled them that four were under the specified age of 21 years, but we waived that requirement because it would have taken too long for the Deputy to get more," said Carroll.

Belleville Justices Are Opposed to Women Jurors.

Belleville Justices of the Peace do not think they would like to have women jurors sit in their courts. A Post-Dispatch reporter who canvassed them on the subject Wednesday, following the impaneling of a woman jury in East St. Louis, found them opposed to the idea.

"Court sits in the morning," said Justice Obst, "and in the morning women ought to be at home attending to their houses and their families. I don't want them on juries here, but maybe, if the lawyers on both sides accepted them, I wouldn't think it my business to object."

"No woman jury here," said Justice Wangelin. "I don't think it's constitutional. Anyway, the venire papers require men, men, that's the word, and that doesn't mean women, or it didn't when I went to school."

Magistrate Underwood made a similar legal objection, and said he would oppose such an innovation. Justice Ward said he would prefer not to have women on juries, and that he would not permit an all-woman jury, though he might tolerate one with two or three women on it, if the lawyers should desire them.

WOMAN MERCURY PATIENT IS GREATLY IMPROVED

Recovery of Mrs. Carrie Dubois, Who Took Poison, Expected by Physicians.

Mrs. Carrie Dubois, who took lock-ridge of mercury, was reported to be in a greatly improved condition at the home of her mother, Mrs. Beale Holter, at 616 Gambelton place, Wednesday.

Frequent solutions of salt have also been administered to prevent the mercury from destroying the red blood corpuscles. Physicians Wednesday told Mrs. Holter that her daughter has a chance to recover.

ATTACK ON WOMEN OF NORTH STRICKEN OUT BY SENATE

Tillman Withdraws Bledsoe's Suffrage Article After It Is Called Insult.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, July 30.—Senators from many sections of the country asserted in debate that Northern women had been unduly assailed in Dr. Albert Taylor Bledsoe's article assailing women suffrage. At the request of Senator Tillman the views of Dr. Bledsoe has been incorporated in the Congressional Record, appearing today.

Discovery of what he termed reflection on women of the North was made by Senator Gallinger. He called attention to what he designated as an "open and wicked insult to Northern women." He hoped Tillman would have the objectionable paragraphs eliminated. If that was not done, Gallinger said he would take occasion to submit some observations on the writers' criticism of Northern women; he desired to emphatically deny that they were enemies to the Government.

This view was concurred in by Chamberlain of Oregon. He said the article reflected on Northern women. Although born in the South, he could not speak too highly of those in the other section.

"That kind of language about any woman should not be admitted to the Record," said Lodge of Massachusetts.

Bledsoe Defends Suffrage.
"The language of my article is outrageous and so infamous that I cannot refrain from expressing my resentment," said Bledsoe of Kansas. He explained that limited suffrage prevailed in Kansas. He frequently had been accompanied to the voting place by his wife. The polling booths, he said, were as decent and orderly for women to visit as any other place.

The women of California were eulogized by Works of that State. He said it was an insult to them that such declarations should go in the Record. Just then Tillman came in.

"I had not read the entire article," he said, "but was struck with some of the historical references."

The article was withdrawn from the Record, at the request of Tillman. At the suggestion of Gallinger all discussion of the matter then was ended.

The features of Dr. Bledsoe's criticism most object to follow:

"But the strong-minded women of the North in great and increasing multitude, desire a different right from this. They covet the power of the hustings and places in Congress. They would fain enter the lists with pot-house politicians and become the rivals of negroes."

"Let them, O fair daughters of the South, pursue their own course. But if they will unsex themselves let them at the same time lay aside their modest apparel. Let them out their hair short, and their petticoats, too, and enter a bloomer the ring of political prize fighters. If, indeed, we were the most deadly enemies of the North, we could wish no greater calamity to befall them than the success, the triumph of such a movement. Make their women the equals of their men and the rivals of their negroes, reduce marriage to a civil contract between co-equal partners for the supposed convenience and happiness of the parties, and you cause the history of Imperial Rome to repeat itself in this country."

Warns of Romans' Fate.
"Behold the awful vision, even as it now passes before our eyes. The word of God is trampled under foot. The spirit of infidelity grows rank and ravid, even among women, and it has always grown among female reformers. The marriage tie is treated with levity, if not with contempt, and divorces are the order of the day. One husband, as at Rome, has his twenty-first wife, and his twenty-first wife has her twenty-third husband. Finally, the marriage relations become, as it did at Rome, so 'intolerably disagreeable' that men would as soon marry the plague as a member of the once fair sex. Woman is no longer sacred in the eyes of man. Indeed, the women have become disgusting to men and the men disgusting to women. All are brawling politicians. The weaker vessel goes down before the stronger and both are buried beneath the ruins of their country."

"Such is inevitably the awful doom of the North if the spirit of infidel reform, which in proud contempt of the word and the providence of God has inaugurated the woman's rights movement, should prevail and gain the ascendancy. The fruit may be pleasant to the eye and seem greatly to be desired to make one wise, and the wily tempter may whisper, in the day that thou eat thereof thou shalt become as men, but if woman heeds the fatal lure the luscious golden fruit will turn to ashes on her lips and she will awake from her dream of dominion only to discover that all her glory has departed."

STEPS INTO RIVER OFF WHARFBOAT AND IS DROWNED

Before Robert Moore, 2000 Wash street, watchman on the Diamond Jo wharfbait foot of Washington avenue, could do anything to aid him, a man who walked off the wharf into the river at 1:30 a. m. Wednesday was drowned. Moore used grappling hooks for almost an hour but failed to find the body. He then informed the police.

Moore told the Central Station police that the man walked on the wharfbait apparently intoxicated. He walked to the outer edge of the boat and stepped into the water. Moore ran to the edge, but says the man never reappeared. He described him as being about five feet nine inches tall, wearing dark trousers, white shirt and dark cap.

LONDON, July 30.—Emperor Nicholas of Russia, fully accoutred as a private, recently made a seven-mile march in order to gain personal experience of service as a common soldier, according to the Daily Telegraph's St. Petersburg correspondent. Everyone apparently was ignorant of his identity until the next day, when the Emperor entered himself according to the regulations on the registered roll as "Private Nicholas Romanoff, married, of the orthodox faith, coming from Tarskoeselo."

BYGRACE of the MAJOR'S POCKETBOOK

THE dinner that was to be a means to an end, and a bold way out of an awkward dilemma.

By GRANT THORBURN.

"W HY don't you tackle Maj. Milbank for a job?" suggested Tommy Grady's friend. Tommy Grady didn't have a cent—not one cent. And he didn't have a job, either. But he was looking for one—under the circumstances, a very proper thing to do. Still, to make up for the deficiency Tommy Grady had a considerable amount of the natural American ability called bluff, which sometimes works, though often it does not. And what was quite as much to the point, he was the possessor of a well-earned but not a well-kept coat. More people than a few have been able to make a considerable impression with the aid of these, and if there ever was a man who looked extremely well when all torged up, that man was Tommy Grady. So far, however, his efforts had been in vain, and it was in response to his complaint about his lack that Tommy's friend offered the above suggestion. "You know him, don't you?" continued Tommy's friend. "Know him?" replied Tommy doubtfully. "Why, yes I do, but what is he? What's his business?" "Why, great Scott, man," exclaimed the other, "he just went into office the first of the year—he's the head of the building department. He ought to have a job or two on hand."

"By George," mused Tommy, "you're right. 'Til try him on, May be." His friend placed a warning hand on Tommy's arm. "Now, look here, Grady," he remarked, "remember this. Don't go to Maj. Milbank with any hard luck story. That won't do. Milbank likes successful men—he doesn't give a hang for the other kind. Your clothes ought to pull you through, if you only keep a stiff upper lip."

Grady nodded. "What's the best time to see him?" he inquired. "I was just going to tell you that, too," returned the other. "Now, if there's one thing the Major likes better than another, it's a bang-up dinner at a bang-up place. You invite him out some night—you know he'll well enough for that—and give him a swell dinner and put up a big, big bluff, and then—strike while the iron's hot! And it's ten to one you'll fetch him, too."

Tommy sighed. He showed his high hat far on the back of his head and ruefully pulled his trousers pockets inside out. They were empty. "A bang-up dinner in a bang-up place," he commented sorrowfully. "Then his face brightened. "Can you?" he suggested appealingly. The other man shook his head. "Not a cent!" he replied firmly. "You owe me too much already, Tommy Grady."

That evening in the grillroom of the very swellest place in town there sat two well-dressed men engaged in conversation. One of them was Building Superintendent John P. Milbank, the other Tommy Grady. The latter was by far the more distinguished looking of the two. Two empty bottles stood between these men. A fresh one was in the hands of a waiter in process of being opened. "You see," said Tommy Grady as Maj. Milbank stretched forth his glass, "I ain't so much that I haven't got a good thing where I am—I'm all right so far as that goes; but what I want is to get into public work. I want to broaden out, you know. And I'd even rather take a job that—don't pay me so well."

"No, no, young man," broke in the Major, "never say that! Never say that you'll take a job that won't pay you so well. Always stick to a job that pays better—see? That's the way to talk."

"Well," murmured Tommy, "of course I could stand that, too, if I could." The dinner progressed. Tommy enjoyed the first square meal that he had had in many days. His guest ate and drank prodigiously. He, too, enjoyed himself. But dinner cannot last forever. After dinner comes the waiter—and the pay check. And they came this time with a vengeance. When the waiter laid down at Tommy's plate the small pink reckoning Tommy hastily picked it up, and, rising, leaned over toward the Major. "Major," he remarked, "there's a fellow down there at the other end who wants to see me. If you'll excuse me for a moment—"

The Major nodded and proceeded to finish his last bottle of wine. Grady swung down to the end of the room, turned into the hall, and stepped up to the proprietor's little desk. "Molani," he explained confidentially, as he leaned over, "see here, I—"

After three minutes of explanation on the part of Tommy Grady Molani firmly shook his head. "Master Grady," he replied with a frown, "it will not do. The last time I told you was the last. I tell you now it was. You must pay." He shrugged his shoulders in the face of protest. "I care not how," he went on, "but you must pay, that's all."

"Major Milbank," remarked Grady a few seconds later as he resumed his seat and lit a cigar, "it's the most peculiar thing!" "What do you mean?" continued Tommy, "but do you know I've carried this wallet for some seven years—and more. I bought it seven years ago last fall. And it's just as good as new. Where did I get it? Why, at Tobor's, the harness people on Main street. Where did you get yours?"

No. 8 (In the Swing)

Done for the Post-Dispatch By ELEANOR SCHORER.

Far be it from a fat old bachelor to be ungentle to a Bessie who roughly suggests that she would like to go flying like a bird up to the tree top with the old swing for wings! He braves mosquitoes, sun and exhaustion. Cupid does somersaults holding his pudgy sides over the huge joke.

Her Photograph.

"O girl should give her photograph to a man unless she is absolutely sure she will never regret having done so. This business of passing out a photograph to anyone who may happen to ask for it is unwise if not absolutely dangerous. The portrait of yourself is an exceedingly intimate thing. The possession of it is a favor which should be reserved for only your closest friends and especially you should be careful about giving it to men who are mere acquaintances. You see, it is not at all certain that a photograph will be returned to you when you ask for it. A number of girls in this predicament have written to me for advice. I can only urge them to be more careful in the future."

Wearing a Lover.

P. writes: "I have paid attention to a girl for two years, but now she asks me not to see her for some time, as she wants to enjoy the society of others. I've promised to accept of others' eyes again later on. Do you think she will come back to me?"

I doubt it. I think she is paying the way for a permanent separation.

Let Absence Help.

C. writes: "Is it possible to break off an attachment when one comes in daily contact with the object of it? The person for whom I care is obviously consoling himself. If you have sufficient strength of will you can do likewise, even though you haven't absence to help you."

Nationalized the Cats.

WHEN Mulai Hafid, ex-Sultan of Morocco, succeeded to the sultanate, he found the sacred city of Fes infested with rats. Without any loss of time he at once nationalized all the cats of Morocco and issued a command that many thousands of them should be marched into Fes for service. For some time a law has existed in Morocco making it compulsory to keep cats in every house, the number varying according to the size of the house.

WHEN IS A SUMMER SQUASH?

A DOMESTIC dialogue in a Queen Anne front and a Mary Ann back.

By ALMA WOODWARD.

(Scene: An overestimated truck garden attached to a rented, furnished summer cottage—Queen Anne front, Mary Ann back.)

RS. A. (delightfully): I never knew before what a wonderful pleasure a garden could be.

Just imagine how we've spent our money every summer renting a cottage on the beach where there is nothing but sand and glare! And then how lucky we were to get this place, with a garden and all attached for less money.

Mr. A. (puffing on his pipe): Yes, it's a great satisfaction to be able to go out in the early morning and dig up a tomato or a spinach for dinner. I tell you they taste altogether different.

Mr. A. (precisely): They WILL taste different, you mean, Jason.

Mr. A. (firmly): Well, Jason, I've been telling you for the last week that the time to pick it was now. I'm sure it's ready to pick.

Mr. A. (examining the squash carefully): I don't think so. I think it ought to be some kind of a color. It doesn't seem right to pick a thing when it's pure white.

Mr. A. (exasperated): But this isn't that kind of a squash, Jason—it's a white one. Haven't I seen 'em every morning of my life when I've gone market? But I wouldn't take the responsibility of picking it. Because if by any chance there was something the matter with it you'd never let me hear the least of it. Nevertheless, I tell you for the last time that squash ought to be picked NOW!

They walk toward the house and eat themselves in rocking chairs on the porch. Mrs. A. (with spirit): I'll make a bet with you. I'll bet you a quarter that squash ought to be picked NOW.

Mr. A. (briskly): I'll take you. I'll bet it has to turn some color.

They sit in silence. Ten minutes later a boy carrying a covered basket on his arm comes whistling up the path.)

Boy (hoarsely): Vegetables? Want any fresh vegetables?

Mrs. A.: Have you got a nice assortment of vegetables?

Boy (looking into his basket): Well, I'm pretty well sold out this evening, but I got some fine summer squash left.

Mrs. A. (nudging her husband): Let me see them, boy.

Boy uncovers a fine specimen of summer squash.

Mrs. A. (sotto voice): See? What did I tell you? That's the way they ought to look. Now you just buy that squash, Jason Adams, and we'll go out and compare it with ours. I just want to prove to you that I AM right about SOME things once in a while!

Mr. A. (driven into a corner): Aw, I'm willing to take your word for it. What's the use of buying one when we got one out in the garden?

Mrs. A. (sternly): Jason, you buy that squash. I'm not going to leave any loophole for argument afterward.

(Mr. A. reluctantly shells out a quarter. The boy throws his empty basket over his head and departs whistling. Mrs. A. goes toward the garden. Mr. A. follows.)

Mr. A. (eyes glued on the squash vine): —!

Mrs. A. (shrilly): What's the matter?

Mr. A. (dazed): The squash ain't here! OUR squash ain't here!

(Mrs. A., with almost uncanny insight, bends down and lifts the bought squash into the gaping wound in the vine.)

Mrs. A. (murmured): By gosh! If that kid didn't go an' cop OUR squash an' then turn around an' sell it to us!

Mrs. A. (sinisterly): Didn't I tell you that squash ought to have been picked NOW?

Mr. A. (with expression): Aw! —

CHOOSING YOUR OCCUPATION

Druggists must be exact and fond of the business.

By CELIA K. HUSIK.

THE business of mixing and compounding drugs and medicines entails such grave responsibility that it should be taken up by one's personal qualifications and fitness for the work.

The first and most important requisite is an actual fondness for working with chemicals and drugs. The habit of carefulness and precision is the next important personal qualification. The careless, happy-go-lucky, irresponsible individual is not fit to be a pharmacist. Personal neatness and cleanliness and tact in dealing with people are needed in this occupation. One must also learn to read all kinds of handwriting, as this is very important in the work of filling prescriptions.

The preliminary education necessary before one can enter a school of pharmacy is two years of high school work. A two years' course in a reputable college of pharmacy gives one the degree of graduate pharmacist.

The ambitious young student can do substituting work as a drug clerk during the period of study. Of course no undergraduate pharmacist is permitted to compound prescriptions; but he can do all the other work necessary in connection with this business, thus both earning a little money and at the same time gaining some practical experience relating to the business end of the pharmaceutical chemist's profession. This is particularly valuable for the one who expects to open a pharmacy of his own upon the completion of his course of study.

The pay of a pharmacist ranges from $10 to $25 per week. There are positions for those who have managerial abilities that pay a good deal more. Also, the pharmacist who has developed experience and capital may open a pharmacy of his own and so develop a profitable business for himself.

SALT AND MILK BATHS FOR BEAUTY

IN being your own beauty doctor you must learn the trick from this Post-Dispatch writer.

By ANDRE DUPONT.

"I WISH I had a lot of money," said the Average Girl. "You should remember," replied the Woman of Thirty, "that it is possible to have plenty of money and still be unhappy and discontented."

"That's very true," snapped the Girl, "but any sensible person would rather be unhappy with money than without it. If I had the money, for instance, I would go and have my face treated for that weather-beaten look that tramps over the mountains and week-ends at the shore have given it. But at the present state of my finances this would be a wild extravagance."

"You shouldn't blame it all on mountain walks and ocean breezes," said the Woman of Thirty. "How about the hot cakes for breakfast and the fudge parties on the rocks? What your complexion needs to get it in condition again is a good tonic."

"I'm stony broke. I spent all the landlord left me on that pompadour volée, reduced from $40 to $11.98. One can get such bargains at this time of year!"

"You're like nearly every other woman. You think that all beautifiers that are any good are necessarily expensive. Now, it is possible to keep the complexion in perfect condition without the aid of costly cold creams, lotions or cosmetics. Sometimes the simplest household standbys will work wonders if only one knows how to use them."

"Nothing in any beauty doctor's shop will improve the appearance of your complexion in its present condition so quickly as a salt and milk bath. Take half a pint of milk—an ordinary tumbler holds about that amount. Put it in a bowl and shake a little salt in it—quite a little—I should say about a teaspoonful in all. Stir it until it dissolves and then bathe the face in this, letting it dry on. This should be done at night and several times during the day as well. In the morning and when it has been on for an hour or so in the daytime the face should be washed in warm water and then braced with a dash of cold water with a little cologne in it."

"What does all this do to the skin?"

"It removes that brown, weather-beaten tinge and that coarse grained look which in midsummer disfigure so many otherwise pretty complexions and makes the skin white and firm. If the neck is washed in milk and salt it too will be greatly improved."

"Salt is also just as useful for keeping the hands soft and white. In doing any sort of housework it is simply invaluable. If you have been washing out anything and have been obliged to use strong laundry soap and the skin on the hands feels drawn and rough, shake a little salt into the water in which you rinse your hands and the skin will at once become firm and smooth."

"I've heard of using salt to make the teeth white. Don't you think that's nonsense?"

"No, I do not. Salt is an excellent tonic for the teeth. It prevents decay, invigorates the gums and polishes the enamel. I always give my teeth a salt rub at least once a week."

"I guess I'll try a few of these stunts," said the Girl, and added with a laugh, "for then no one can ever accuse me of being too fast."

AGENTS EXPECT TO OVERCOME EARLY BACK IN STATE SEASON SETBACKS

St. Louisans Say if Big Ones Yield Proves Best of Recent Years—Last of the Crop Being Threshed.

EAGER FOR RESUMPTION

Offices Have Been Run at a Loss Since Fire Companies "Went on Strike."

Negotiations of officers of big Eastern fire insurance companies with Gov. Major and Attorney-General Barker at Jefferson City this week is expected by some St. Louis agents to break the agents' fire insurance strike which has been on since April 30.

Local agents declared that if 10 or 12 of the big Eastern companies returned to the State it would be a matter of a short time only until virtually all the companies resumed business.

Two important conferences have been held between State officials and officials of the fire insurance companies the last week. Several days ago General Western Manager Steele of the Fidelity-Phoenix Insurance Co. and allied interests held a conference with Gov. Major and Tuesday David Ramsey of New York, vice-president and general counsel of the Continental and Fidelity-Phoenix companies, was in Jefferson City conferring with Gov. Major and the Attorney-General.

All World Flock Back

Local agents have not been informed as to whether any agreement was reached, but they are usually quick to state the statement of the Governor and Attorney-General that the two big companies and several others closely allied with them were about ready to resume business.

"If the interests identified, with these companies resume business in the State, all the companies will come flocking back," said one fire insurance agent.

Attorney-General Barker gave Ramsey assurance that he would dismiss his suits in the Supreme Court against all the fire insurance companies that resumed business in the State before he begins taking testimony against the striking companies in August. He also assured him that the anti-trust feature of the Orr law, to which the companies have so strongly objected, would not be enforced.

It is understood among local agents that the fire insurance officials also discussed with the Governor and Attorney-General a program of progressive fire insurance legislation to be enacted at the next Legislature.

Gov. Major has indicated in authorized statements that he would make strong recommendations to the Legislature in favor of laws to lessen the fire hazard in the State.

Agents Eager for Resumption. Local insurance agents are eager for the companies to resume, as many of the agencies have been operating at a heavy loss since the companies withdrew. They are having to keep open their offices to look after the policies now in force.

A few companies are writing fire insurance, and the agents say they are running their legs off trying to get insurance for their clients. Rates have been demoralized in the crisis, the agents say. The companies that are doing business in the State generally are reaping a harvest by charging rates greatly in excess of the rates that existed prior to the strike.

Local Wholesalers Deny They Will Open East Side Warehouses. It has been rumored in business circles that several large wholesale houses in St. Louis were contemplating the removal of their warehouses to East St. Louis because of their inability to get sufficient insurance on their stocks here. This was denied Wednesday by wholesale merchants, who said the cost of moving their warehouses would be much greater than the loss they would have to assume in case of fire.

Forrest Ferguson, president of the Ferguson-McKinney Dry Goods Co., said that nearly all the wholesale merchants had renewed their insurance here for the big companies withdrew from Missouri, and that the risks are covered until the first of the next year. When the insurance expires, he said, there are enough insurance companies and mutual organizations doing business in St. Louis to issue policies to almost cover the stocks carried.

J. B. Hogan, vice-president of the Rice-Shir Dry Goods Co., said it would be a poor business move, because the present policies cover risks until after Jan. 1, 1914, or later. Officials of other firms said their stocks are fully protected now, and they believe the insurance situation will be adjusted before the policies expire.

SIMON DISMISSES HIS CONTEST AGAINST KIEL. Action Follows Failure to Show Gains in Recount—Laserus Also Quits.

The election contest in which Dr. John H. Simon sought to unseat Mayor Kiel was formally dismissed Wednesday by a stipulation filed in Judge Grimm's court. The contest of A. H. Frederick against Simon as mayor for President of the City Council also was dismissed by stipulation.

These are the last two cases pending in the contests filed by Democrats and Republicans following the election for city officers. An agreement was reached several days ago, after the recount by the Board of Election Commissioners showed that no material gains or losses had been found by which the final result would be changed.

Alton's wheat crop has proven to be the best in years and will net farmers in the neighborhood of $700,000, according to the estimate of A. J. Bivens of the Alton Seed Co. The last of the crop is being threshed on the farm of Ed Hoechle of East Alton.

About 20,000 acres of land are devoted to wheat raising in four centers near Alton. The average weight of most of the output of grain in this vicinity is 62 pounds to the bushel, a good weight considering discouraging conditions earlier in the season.

Judge T. S. Chapman and the Reddish Brothers conduct farms in Jerseyville County, whose wheat output averages 25 bushels to the acre. At Missouri Mount, Altonius Wise, Henry Peent and John Herndon, who own big farms, claim the average output is 30 bushels to the acre. Southeast of Alton, near Wood River, is another big wheat growing center, where H. J. Bowman and the Reuter Brothers say the output is 28 bushels to the acre.

The best average, however, is that of Harvey Dorsey and Fred Zoelzer, of Alton. They claim the average for their farms is 41 bushels to the acre. While the wheat crop has been good, corn, hay, oats and potatoes have failed, owing to chinch bugs and drought in the spring.

The corn crop is only about three-fourths of what it usually is, while the hay output is only about one-fourth of the annual product.

Oats have been a complete failure, Alton, usually a good potato market, had a crop of about one-third of what it has been in recent years.

By Leased Wire From the New York City Office of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 30.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted financial review today says:

"The influences on the stock market of the day seemed to be the natural tendency to reaction after the recent considerable rise; the Steel corporation's remarkably favorable statement of earnings for the first quarter, continuation of the wave in the corn belt, and London's continued buying of our stocks—no doubt in connection with the closing of a bear account at the fortnightly Exchange settlement—caused a somewhat irregular movement of prices for the day. The Steel shares, for example, opened a point above yesterday's close, but other stocks moved up 1/2 to 3/4, but the reaction movement was resumed rather promptly and the day's trading was business prices yielded."

A few shares, such as Reading and Union Pacific, lost a point or more, though part of that loss was recovery of Illinois Central's half-yearly dividend from 3 1/2 to 2 1/2 per cent. The statement of the fiscal year of the $2,000,000 deficit of the fiscal year 1912 and the failure to earn the forecast profit of $1,000,000 for 1913, but the news, and the consequent 3-point break in the stock today, had little to do with the decline in the grain market, which declined in the morning, but recovered in the afternoon, and later in the day on predictions of rain in the West.

"An interesting contribution to current prophecy was the Iron Age's statement that the Iron Age's now giving more proof of a turn than in any week of the long succession of declines."

Foreign Exchange Weak. "There was a further break in foreign exchange and eight drafts on London at one time sold at 48 1/2, a 1/2-cent below yesterday. The weakness was due to the fact that the purchase of securities for London at one time, which so far this week have as good as nothing done."

There were other factors at work, however, and the fact that 30-day money in London was quoted at 10 per cent, the price prevailing here, offered some advance in this market. A large offering of London bills from various sources.

The demand for time money afforded the banks here for time money to make new loans upon Stock Exchange and somewhat easier tendency prevailed in rates for short-term accommodation.

There was no important change in rates and the situation was still in large whole borrowers found it difficult to secure very heavy advances because of the indisposition of many banks to put out large sums for long periods.

"The Steel Corporation's net earnings for the second quarter of 1913, given out yesterday afternoon, are noteworthy in several respects. The $4,300,000 earned in the first three months of the year, even Pittsburgh had estimated $3,000,000, and 70,000,000 of the March quarter."

Stock Breaks $8 Per Share Following Announcement; Other Issues Steady.

Floods and Poor Business Cause I. C. Dividend Cut.

NEW YORK, July 30.—In expectation of a dividend reduction, Illinois Central stock broke 1/2 point in the market today, immediately after the announcement, it declined a more to 100 1/2, the lowest price since 1909, when it sold at 100 1/2.

The reason for the reduction, according to a statement issued by the directors, was the unusual condition of the last two years, not only those affecting the general business, but those affecting the company's business.

The company's earnings for the year amounted to 6 per cent, and the stock is placed now on a 5 per cent basis.

This has been fully earned, the directors' statement reads, notwithstanding severe loss of traffic and increase in expenses due to lands and April floods. Net earnings for May and June were $1,000,000, and the company's earnings for the first three weeks of July show a further improvement.

The Jarr Family

By ROY L. MCARDLE

The Jarrs undertake to go to Alton, but can't get away.

W HERE shall we go next?" asked Mr. Jarr.

"Please don't consult me about it!" replied Mrs. Jarr coldly. "After what I have through I need a good long rest. And home is the best place to take it!"

"That suits me!" remarked Mr. Jarr, with the first enthusiasm he had evinced in some time. "All the comforts of home! One's own meals to eat, one's own beds to sleep in, one's own house to loaf around in! Ah, there's the ideal vacation!"

"You forget that Gertrude has come over to her married sister who has a railroad boarding house," said Mrs. Jarr. "It may be a vacation for you, with your own meals to eat, when I cook them; and your own bed to sleep in, when I have to make the beds; and as for loafing around the house—well, if I have the work to do, I don't want you in my way!"

"But didn't you suggest we could stay home and take little day trips to places near the city for vacation?"

"Mr. Jarr," asked Mrs. Jarr, "sue suggest such a thing?"

Mr. Jarr was on the point of saying she was the very person. But trouble can be brought about any time. So he made no reply.

"I've been thinking, since it seems I'm to have no real vacation, that we might have the rooms papered while you are home to give a hand taking down and putting up the pictures," began Mrs. Jarr after a pause.

Mr. Jarr shuddered.

"Oh, let it go till fall," he said. "Let's not be discouraged because the children got lost and I got separated from you and had to walk home because you had the money."

"You had $2 when we started out. That's enough to waste. What did you do with it?"

Mr. Jarr remembered perfectly what he had done with it. He had spent 20 cents on himself. But this, too, would have only made more trouble had he said so. So he only remarked softly that there were a lot of pleasant short trips the family could take and enjoy.

"What say?" he asked. "Let's run up to Alton. There's a grand place."

"Oh, very grand!" replied Mrs. Jarr, sarcastically. "Look what's printed in the papers as happening there every day!"

"But there's a lot of recreation places at and near Alton," persisted Mr. Jarr. "There's boating and swimming and bathing—"

"And people breaking their necks swimming and getting upset boating," and getting arrested for wearing slit skirts," said Mrs. Jarr.

"Now, don't be prejudiced," advised Mr. Jarr. "Get the children ready and let's go to Alton."

"Very well," said Mrs. Jarr. "But remember, I feel in my bones something is going to happen. So don't blame me!"

In due time the Jarr family was at the depot and just in time to catch a train to Alton.

"Tickets!" cried the man at the gate. "We'll pay our fare on the train. Let us through!" said Mr. Jarr.

But the gateman was inexorable. Mr. Jarr rushed over to the single ticket window open. A line blocked the way, and after Mr. Jarr got to the window the ticket seller held a heated debate with him regarding the age of children he asked half-fare tickets for.

"Children?" cried Mr. Jarr, at last. "The half-fare tickets are for my venerable grandparents!"

Finally the autocrat of the wicket let him have the tickets.

"Train to Alton's gone!" said the gateman. "Another one in an hour!"

In Palliation.

THE elderly but well preserved bachelor was trying to make love to the proud young beauty.

"Why, Mr. Squillop," she exclaimed, in astonishment, "why don't you take somebody of your own age! You're as old as—old as the moral law!"

"I know it, Miss Fanny," he said, "but I'm in a good deal better state of preservation."

Lucky Papa.

"I WANT some cloth to make my dolly a dress," announced a little 5-year-old girl as she entered a store near her home.

"How much is it?" she asked when the pretty young woman behind the counter handed her the cloth.

"Just one kiss," was the reply.

"All right. Papa said he would pay you when he came tomorrow."
